

Up Ahead: The wonderful world of tournament casting

Get Ready...
Get Set...
GO!
To the 96th ACA National!

This is the big one. For North America anyway. The 96th American Casting Association National Tournament. The place? Lexington, Kentucky. Home of racing, great food, warm hospitality, but also home to the Blue Grass Sportsmen's League, which will host the tournament. Those of us who were privileged to attend the 94th Annual National know that is the place to be August 2-7 2004. You'll find all the details inside.

What happened at the 8th National Indoor Tournament?

Plenty! I heard Henry Mittel had to pay excess baggage for all the gold medals he won. Other big winners were: John Seroczynski (lots of silver medals, and the gorgeous All-American Casting Trophy); Ed Lanser (took most of the gold in the Seniors); Pam Peters (eight gold medals!) and lots of others.

---

The Revel Brothers!
Are they the upcoming Rajeffs?

Their names are Dustin and George. They are only 14 and 15 and they WOWed those of us who attended last year's National and Northwestern Tournaments. But a tremendous amount of credit must go to their coach Guy Manning and their dad Andre Revel. This is a "must read" for everyone who wants to get their children involved in the world of tournament casting.

---

And speaking of the Rajeff brothers....

They certainly were smiling after their incredible victory at the Fly Fishing Masters tournament. Tim and Steve won the casting tournament and then the trout fishing competition, and this earned them first place honors and $30,000 cash.

Okay, they're not quite in Tiger Woods' financial bracket (at least we don't think they are!) but they are every bit as good in their sport as Tiger is in his. Maybe better.

What happened at the 8th National Indoor Casting Tournament

The 8th National Indoor Casting Tournament, held at McCormick Place, Chicago, January 23-25, 2004, was a huge success. Much credit goes not only to the Seroczynskis, Bill Burke (who handled the laptop computer for almost instantaneous results), the judges and so many others, but also to Jennifer Faulk, her staff and the Chicago Boat, RV and Outdoors Show which co-hosted the event with the Chicago Angling and Casting Club.

One of the most appreciated features this year, was the addition of a full-sized practice casting pool just a few yards away from the main casting pool. This allowed casters to practice or warm up before the main event. This also served as a “classroom” for the many young people (and some adults) who wanted to learn to cast.

Although there were many outstanding casting results, here are some of the incredible accomplishments at the tournament.

■ Henry Mittel won five Gold Medals (1st Place) in the six accuracy events, coming in second (Silver Medal) in the 1/4 oz. spinning event (Andy Statt captured the Gold Medal in that event with a 99!) Henry also won the All Accuracy, Accuracy Plugs and Accuracy Flies for a total of eight Gold Medals!

■ John Seroczynski won five Silver Medals coming in second place in Dry Fly, Trout Fly, Bass Bug, All Accuracy and All Flies and won a Bronze Medal (3rd Place) in 3/8 oz. plug. He also captured the prestigious All-American Special Trophy (open only to casters who have won a Gold, Silver or Bronze Medal in a National Casting Tournament).

■ Ed Lanser, was awarded six Gold Medals (1st Place) in 5/8 oz. Plug, Trout Fly, Bass Bug, and the combined All Plugs, All Flies and All Accuracy. He also earned a Silver Medal in 1/4 oz. Plug and a Bronze in Dry Fly.

■ Pam Peters won nine medals in the Women’s Division She was awarded eight Gold Medals (1st Place) in 3/8 oz. Plug, 5/8 oz. Plug, Dry Fly, Trout Fly, Bass Bug, All Accuracy, All Plug and All Flies. She also won a Bronze medal in the 1/4 oz. Spinning.

■ Andy Tulgetske, Josh Carl and Mitchell Mysliwy dominated the Intermediate, Junior and Youth Divisions.

■ Becky Statt won the Non-Adult All-American Trophy after winning a shoot-off with Glenn Carl.

■ There were 24 new National Indoor records set and three scores that tied previous records.

Below Right: Becky Statt won the Non-Adult All American Trophy while John Seroczynski won the All American. Only casters who had won a medal in a National were allowed to compete in the All American.

“PERFECT!” Yell the judges as Pam Peters shoots the plug into the target. She won eight Gold Medals!

The Amazing REVEL Brothers

Q: How long have the Revel boys been casting?

GM: I believe we started about 20 months ago. They had already obtained a rough foundation in casting from The Fly Shop in Redding, CA. They both had 40+ foot casts with relatively decent loops. But, they lacked an understanding of the relationship between target distance and stroke length and timing. They also need to work on improving their form, especially the stopping of the back cast.

Q: How did they get interested in tournament casting?

GM: I would like to say it was all my "fault" but it wasn't. Andre, their dad, had (and still has) family living across the street from where Tim and Steve Rajeff grew up in San Francisco. He would tell his boys stories about their casting accomplishments. About two years ago, Andre and I got involved in a project to put handicapped access fishing docks at Anderson River Park in Anderson where the Revels live.

Because the boys were always with him I came to know them. I offered a lesson and found they were interested in tournament casting. So I bought some 14-inch pizza tins for targets. We worked with the tins for a few months then when the boys expressed an interest in the 2002 Northwestern tournament we bought some PVC irrigation hose and built 24-inch rings. We met every other week and cast for 2 to 3 hours. When we got to the Northwestern they were amazed at how large the REAL rings were. I had created smaller rings on purpose.

Dustin is only 14 and weighs about 85 pounds. He cast 109 feet in the Angler's Fly Event in the 2003 Nationals. George is 15, and he cast 126 feet. They also cast 92 and 94 respectively in the Dry Fly Event. They've procured a fly-tying business. Give tremendous credit to their dad, Andre, and their casting coach Guy Manning. This is a "must read" for anyone who wants to teach a youngster to cast! We interviewed Guy Manning (GM) last fall.

Q: Do they fish?

GM: Yes... From what I understand Andre kind of insisted they learn to fly fish over other methods. Their house is about two blocks from the Lower Sacramento River in Anderson. Andre runs a Drift Boat Rental Service out of their home so they fished often. The Revels' and my fishing hours have been drastically reduced due to the boys commitment to compete in the Nationals. I don't believe they regret that and I know I don't.

Q: How do they get to the Golden Gate Casting Club?

GM: We only go there if we're in the San Francisco area for a sports shows or a tournament. Dad is at all events. He doesn't believe in dropping them off so someone else can mind them.

Q: Are there other casters who coach them?

GM: They also met Tony Yap of the San Jose Casting Club. Tony had spent some time with them prior to my involvement and he still calls them up and meets with them. They get a lot of coaching from other casters, too. George and Dusty also listen to experts at the sports shows and ask many questions. During one distance competition, Dusty was given some advice by one of the tournament directors that was not advantageous to take and he didn't cast as well as he could have. This actually turned out to be a good thing because it made them both consider that:

1. Not all advice is good advice.
2. Just because it comes from an adult it doesn't mean it's always right.

3. Do a little judging of the other person's casting techniques before taking their advice, and,

4. It is wiser to stick with what you have already learned and practiced while you are at a tournament. New or different techniques are things to practice after the tournament, when nothing is at stake.

Q: Does their father cast in tournaments? Fish?

GM: Andre makes attempts at it but has never really put in the time to become more than a competent caster. Much of the reason for this is that he is the "team manager" while I am doing the coaching. He has taken up the role of scorekeeper and distance/accuracy judge while we are working together. At the tournaments Andre participates as scorekeeper and general helper.

I think that the real issue with Andre, as a single father, is that his concern is for his two sons. We both believe that kids need to find an activity that they can focus their excess energies toward. We (all four of us) seem to have accomplished this as a group: The boys have set goals and are pursuing those goals. Andre has helped the boys find and develop an interest in fly fishing. I have taken the boys raw talent and energies and molded them to the point where Dusty and George can objectively see what skill level they are at. As for fishing, Andre often ends up sacrificing his time to the boys. Andre does most of the rowing when they are on the river.

Q: Will they compete at Lexington, KY for the 2004 National ?

GM: That's one of their goals. Tim Paxton of Paxton's Buggy Nymph Dubbing Company recently sold his business to the boys for an extremely generous price because their uncle taught Tim how to fly cast at no charge. The boys will most likely finance their trip to Lexington with the profits from the business.

Q: What advice would you give adults teaching youngsters?

GM: It's important with kids to give them some room to do their thing while training. Since the boys both love to do the long double-haul casts I will usually give them some time just to play at whatever they want, during the first part of a session. After a bit I'll find something they may be doing that will allow me to segue into a lesson mode. We will then practice, and cast for score, using what we just learned. I ask them a lot of questions about techniques and also let them experiment with things they may have considered on their own. I challenge them to think the differences through and tell me why they may feel one thing is better than another. It is only after all of this that I give my opinion, and why I feel it is better or worse than their approach.

Also, I had a few occasions where one of the boys might go into "teenager mode". This is the condition every teenager suffers from where they become convinced that they know it all and that the adult knows nothing. I use two techniques to overcome this.

1. Since this is usually associated with a demonstration, I will tell them to watch or look at me. Many time I can get their attention back this way.

2. If this fails, I will call them on the attitude. I will say something like, "I'm attempting to show you something important here, but I can see in your eyes that you are not in a receptive frame of mind right now. So I will just stop trying to help you until I see that you are more inclined to listen." It is amazing how quickly they recover when they want to.

And this just In....

We just heard that George Revel cast 94 ft.10 in. with a five-weight outfit to capture 2nd place at the recent San Mateo ISE show! We're talking Adults Division, folks. Dustin, his brother, cast 93 ft., but it was out of bounds and therefore didn't count. Congratulations!

Rajeffs win $30,000 in FFM

Tim (left) and Steve Rajeff went home $30,000 richer when they won the Fly Fishing Masters Tournament which was telecast on the Outdoor Life Network (OLN). It wasn't an easy road to victory because they competed against some of the finest trout fishermen in the United States. To qualify for the Western team, they had to do well in the casting competition (they won it) held at Golden Gate Casting Club. For the fishing portion, competitors had to tie their own flies. The Rajeff brothers won the Western and then went on to the Finals. By winning the tournament casting segments they had their choice of beats.

They won the fishing portion and first place in the finals which earned them a $30,000 check.

What's also important is their victories in the qualifying regional and finals were aided by their unparalleled skill in distance and accuracy casting.

Certainly their victory signifies the importance of skill in casting, not only to get the first choice in beats, but also to place that fly exactly where they want it in the fishing portion.

Rule change for 5/8 oz. accuracy event

From Bill Burke: There's an important rule change for the 5/8 oz. Plug Accuracy event. Here is the wording exactly as it appears on page 30 of the ACA Bylaws and Regulations document.

1. EQUIPMENT...

C) 5/8 oz. (18g) Plug Accuracy (Revolving Spool Reel shall be required for casters whose ages are thirteen (13) and over. For casters whose ages are twelve (12) and under the reel shall be unrestricted. A caster who feels that their current physical condition requires the use of spinning tackle may petition the Executive Committee for an exemption. A complete written explanation of why a revolving spool reel is impractical shall be presented. The Executive Committee shall have the authority to grant a permanent or temporary exemption)

This rule was passed by the Delegates at the San Francisco National Tournament and became effective on January 1, 2004. Anyone needing this exemption shall petition the Executive Committee by contacting John Seroczynski and state the reasons why they should be allowed to use spinning tackle. John will then call for an Executive Committee vote. After the Executive Committee has rendered its decision, John will then need to contact the person making the petition and the appropriate member clubs of the Executive Committee's decision.

And while on the subject of rule changes

You can now use a 9-ft. rod for the Trout Fly Accuracy event. Previously the length was limited to 8½ feet. Good change. It was virtually impossible to find an 8½-ft. rod for a No. 6 fly line these days.

Overheard at the 8th National Indoor Tourney

We had a number of conversations with fishermen attracted to the casting pool. Some didn't even know that there was such an activity as "competitive casting."

The two major "complaints" or suggestions we heard were:

1. The need of a scoreboard that indicates who's casting, his/her score and standings.
2. The necessity of reducing the time in some events, mostly in fly casting.

"It's nice to see casters perform but all this [false] casting tends to be boring. Why don't you limit the number of false casts?"

On the first suggestion a scoreboard would be a superb tool for popularizing casting among audiences. But this would be an extremely expensive item. Perhaps someone has a suggestion for constructing a simple scoreboard that gives the results fairly quickly?

On the second suggestion we agree. We heard this a number of times. Phil Seroczynski who ably handled the PA system explained the basics and attracted many people poolside. But after watching someone false cast numerous times to a single target, they often wondered off.

One person said: "You casters should have casting shirts indicating what city or club you are from."

Not a bad idea. At major European tournaments, casters wear casting outfits that signify their country.

Most importantly, we need to attract youth to the casting games. It's not fair to our present young casters that they do not have sufficient competition. More on this later.
